

The police department was advised Tuesday evening that the locker rooms at the Kingston Fair Grounds had been broken into and the baseball material of the Kingston High School team had been stolen. Baseball bats and a number of gloves were reported among the goods missing.

Build the home first; the luxuries will follow. The cutting-out of non-essentials is usually the only method of economizing needed to finance the building of a home. After that home is built, the increased efficiency with which the household budget has been distributed often means that the automobile, the vacation trip, those luxuries you've never been able to afford—are now within reach. Prove it for yourself. Let us help you.

Frugality

As boys should be educated with temperance, so the first greatest lesson that should be taught them is to admire frugality. It is by the exercise of this virtue alone that they can ever expect to be useful members of society. It is true, lectures continually repeated upon this subject may make some boys, when they grow up, run into an extreme, and become misers; but it were well had we more misers than we have amongst us.—Goldsmith.

Making It Plain to the Youthful Mind

Like all people whose work brings them into close relation with the human side of things, Sir Herbert Barker, the famous manipulative surgeon, has a great liking for children, and many of his best stories are about them. Here is a good one.

"Daddy, is today tomorrow?" asked little Willie.
"No, my son, of course today isn't tomorrow," answered his father.
"But you said it was," objected Willie.

"When did I ever say that today was tomorrow?"
"Yesterday," answered Willie.
"Well, it was. Today was tomorrow yesterday, but today is today, just as yesterday was today yesterday, but is yesterday today. And tomorrow will be today tomorrow, which makes today yesterday and tomorrow all at once. Now run along and play."

Icebergs

Ice observers recognize two types of icebergs—solid bergs and drydocks. The solid type is what its name implies. It lies low in the water, its sides are rounded by the action of the water and it tips slowly from side to side. The drydock type consists of two high sides with a low passage between. It sails along as majestically as a ship.

You can own a PACKARD SIX for what your present motoring costs

THERE are only two reasons for you to buy a lower priced car than a Packard Six. The first is that you do not want a Packard—that you would really prefer a car less roomy, less comfortable and less beautiful, a car lacking the Packard reputation, distinction and long life.

The second reason is that you have never stopped to figure it out in black and white that Packard Six transportation, over a period of years, costs you no more than lesser car motoring.

This advertisement is addressed to those thousands who admire and long for a Packard—to those whom reason number two is keeping from the enjoyment of the car they really want.

If you can and do pay as much as $1500 for a car then you can buy a Packard Six. And on an ownership basis it will cost you no more per year than your present motoring costs.

There is nothing complicated about proving that statement. For behind that truth lies the simple fact—amplified—that you, like other Packard owners, will keep your Packard longer.

The Packard Six is built to last longer. Owners want to and do drive it approximately twice as long as lesser cars. We know that the average owner of a $1500 car does not drive it more than two years.

Other costs are approximately equal and the lower depreciation of the Packard more than offsets the higher first cost which makes its longer life and finer service possible.

Any Packard may be purchased on a monthly payment basis. Your present car will no doubt more than take care of the down payment. May we appraise it?

On Fashions

A Few Points of Difference in French and American Fashions Noted on Returning from Six Months Abroad Indicate That America Rushes from Season to Season

New York.—To one who has been away from America for six months, first impressions of what women are wearing, as contrasted with what they are wearing abroad, may serve as a barometer of fashions to come.

The first and most striking note of contrast is that of prints. Not only are New York shop-windows abloom with all kinds and colors, but women in all walks of life seem like animated flower gardens. It is not so abroad—not yet at least.

This is due, not to a lack of appreciation of prints, but to the fact that Europeans do not seize upon a new fashion and run it to the ground as quickly as we do in America, and also that they do not rush from midwinter into midsummer with the enthusiasm of our kind. Without a doubt, Paris and other fashionable European centers will wear prints later on; but at present they are content to wear more or less sober tulle and soft beige and gray and durable navy and black.

Gay Hats in Prospect.

Another impression of a first day in New York was the number of windows along the Avenue given over to the display of red hats. It must be admitted that not many are worn, but if windows are a criterion—which, of course, they are—we may expect to be cheered to these gay hats, again a contrast to Europe.

For Europe remains loyal to the small black hat, and faithful to the beige or gray one. If it is matched by either the coat or its fur, the dress or some accessory that justifies its choice. That more straw hats have registered in one day in New York than in a month on the Riviera is also a commentary not without significance.

In browsing around the shops, it was a refreshing sight to see the number of smart printed linens and cottons shown; refreshing because they quite outnumber foreign displays and seem justified by the interest and variety of their designs. One looks forward to a summer in which trim frocks of these gay materials, often sleeveless and sometimes with matching coats, will gladden the landscape.

Ruffles Are Important.

Another delightful prospect is that the charming net frocks, so fragile in appearance and yet so really practical, will come out of the show-windows to flutter on hotel and clubhouse piazzas. These frocks are much bemeddled, and no one minds

The Ellenville-New York bus made its first trip of the season on Friday, May 4. The New York bus leaves Liberty Square, Ellenville at 9:45 and the return bus leaves New York at 2:45. Two trips a day are being made in both directions. Van Kleef has purchased another big Studebaker motor car bus, or the Ellenville-New York run. This gives him three busses to make the trips.

Miss Cornelia Ramey has been visiting friends in Grahamsville.

Miss Dela Osterhout spent a few days in Middletown.

Lovely hands... will stay lovely, in spite of housekeeping cares!

A WHOLE week's "crop" of new brides—in 11 cities—more than 1,200 of them—told us their home-making plans.

Each plan was different, of course. But on one thing these brides were agreed.

They are going to take up housekeeping as a job which requires intelligence and skill. Yet one to be filled without sacrificing charm and GOOD-LOOKS.

And 96 out of 100 of these brides have decided on one way to do this—

Because they know—from using Lux to wash their own fine things—how white and soft Lux makes their hands, they plan to use only Lux for all DISHES, all cleaning their hands have to do.

As experienced housekeepers know, many household soaps—flakes, chips and cakes—are made in the old-fashioned way. They contain harmful alkali that dries up the skin, coarsening and aging it.

There is no injurious alkali in Lux. Made by a remarkable process—Lux actually SOOTHES the skin, leaves it whiter and softer than before.

And instant, sparkling Lux suds are so rich and cleansing that the dishes seem almost to wash themselves! Lux for dishes COSTS LITTLE, because the big package washes six weeks' dishes! Lovely hands for so small a price!

Mother's Day Program at Y. W.

Mother and Daughter Banquet Followed by Readings, Speeches, Production of a Short Play and Tablature Depicting Mothers in Various Periods.

The Junior Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. held their annual Mother and Daughter Banquet Tuesday evening in the Association Building, a function which the girls look forward to from year to year. The symposium was decorated with spring flowers as well as the tables and at each guest's place were minute may-poles made of ribbon in pastel shades, stuck in gum drops. On each tiny streamer was printed a menu.

After the sumptuous dinner, Mrs. Donald W. Atlock, chairman of the Girl Reserve Committee, welcomed the 125 guests and introduced the first speaker on the program, Miss June MacFadden, who read "Mother's Day" by Edgar Guest. Mrs. Herbert Brown responded to this toast on behalf of the mothers. Her remarks were greatly enjoyed.

The members of the Pep Club then dramatized a section of a book, "Billy Bradley or Three Towers Hall." Miss Lucille Coffin took the lead in this playette, being supported by the other members of the club: Lois Beatty, Barbara Ross, Julia Brink, Aileen Bryne, Mildred Bryne, Jane Elston, Helen Joyce, Tillie Lee, June MacFadden, Margaret Messenger, Gertrude Martin, Madeline Pulas, Esther Robins, Helen Short, Anna Schwartz, Ethel Jackson. In conclusion, representatives from all the clubs gave a series of tableaux called "The Spirit of Motherhood" which depicted the mothers of various periods beginning with the Puritan Mother. Those taking part were:

Spirit of Motherhood... Inez Robea
Reader... Anna Whitbeck
Two Pages... Barbara Ross, Gertrude Martin
Musicians... Eva Rand, piano, Virginia Brown, violin.
Puritan Mother... Helen Joyce
Puritan Daughter... Betty Brenn
Pioneer Mother... Marion Cole
Pioneer Daughter... Jean Hilenbary
Modern Mother... Edythe Quimby
Modern Daughter... Dorothy Lyons
Girl Reserve, Future Mother... Dorothy Thompson

During the dinner, Miss Beebe, Girl Reserve secretary, led the girls in singing Girl Reserve songs, being accompanied by Eva Rand at the piano.

Much credit for the success of the banquet is due the Girl Reserve Committee and the members of the Pep Club, Ever Ready, Duxy Bee, T. M. T. M. clubs and their advisers.

East Indian Brokers

Work Day and Night

East Indians of every caste and tribe are gamblers by instinct, but the greatest of them all is the Marwari, who must hold the world's record for constant gambling, writes an Indian merchant in London. In the Bombay market the Marwari has established a virtual monopoly—that of a jobber, prepared both to buy and sell, at a (theoretically) slight difference in price, contracts for the future delivery of cotton.

He cannot resist, however, the lure of continuous operations "out of hours," so he resorts to an unofficial market, Kutchi Khandi, which is open practically day and night, its activities being suspended only to allow operators to snatch a little sleep, or to adjourn to the official cotton exchange. These abuses, and others which prevailed in the market, impelled the cotton trade to call for government legislation, and one result was that Kutchi Khandi was made illegal. But, despite police raids on this business "night club," and the spectacle of a group of super-millionaires being haled before a magistrate, the Marwari remained unabashed.

Gambling is the breath of life to the Marwari, and money but a counter. His clothes are a long frock coat of white cotton, elegantly waisted, a shirt, the starched neckband of which serves as a collar, diamond studs, a dhoti in place of trousers, and a silk turban of mauve, pink, yellow or some other bright hue. His office equipment usually comprises a telephone, a pocketbook and an infallible memory.

Authorized Funds For Highways

Repairs, Improvements, Construction Ordered or Permitted For by Supervisors in Special Session—Tuberculosis Hospital Trust Contract Awarded.

At the special session of the Essex County Board of Supervisors held Tuesday evening had a late start. Instead of beginning at 7:30, the time stated in the call, it was after 9 o'clock when Clerk DeWitt called the roll. Highway appropriations took up the bulk of the time and it was after 11 o'clock when the board adjourned, on motion of Supervisor Rippert, subject to the call of the chair.

Chairman Fred Davis presided. The privilege of the floor was, on motion of Supervisor Young, given to the Hon. Eugene F. Parker of Marlborough, a former member and chairman.

County Treasurer Joel Brink reported that he had received from the state $58,582.33 as the county's share of motor vehicle fees. Filed.

Supervisor Rippert moved that $2,500 in hands of county treasurer given by state be turned over to Veterans Memorial Hospital at Ellenville and also similar amount appropriated by county in hands of county treasurer, also given the hospital.

The Essex county board of elections submitted a report of the work done and a statement of expenditures totaling $14,551.15.

Essex County Branch, State Charles Aid, transmitted a report, including thanks to the board for the appropriation of $3,500 with which to carry on the work in the county. The town board of Rosendale petitioned for $1,000 for the construction of County Highway No. 30-B and an act authorizing the raising of that sum by certificate of indebtedness was introduced by Supervisor Ten Hagen and passed.

On recommendation of the Commission for the Blind of the State, the board authorized the payment of $25 per month for the balance of the year, commencing May 1, toward the maintenance of Orris W. Benson of Ellenville.

Wood & Co.; also that proposition of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co. to install three and four inch gas mains leading to proposed new Tuberculosis Hospital for $1,088 be accepted. Supervisor Schantz moved that there be borrowed by county treasurer the sum of $22,527.67 at no greater rate than 5 per cent and credited to the fund for construction of county highways.

Supervisor Shults said that while he would vote yes the county should ascertain if money is spent on other roads not called for. Sanguettes had money left over last year as it was not diverted. He could not understand where money is spent and failed to understand this additional appropriation. He suggested a bond issue. Resolution adopted.

Road 4-A, in the town of Esopus from Winter Park to the Lloyd line; Road 7-B, in the town of Hardenburgh, the Millbrook road starting at the Delaware county line and running to the Belle Ayre postoffice; Road 22-A in the town of Plattekill, from Tucker's Corners connecting with the Highland-Mohegan road, were petitioned for and added to the map and plans of the county road system.

Chairman Schantz was empowered to appoint a committee of three members of the board, he being one, with power to sell to the highest bidder all lands secured for highway purposes and no longer needed by the county.

Got Pigeons "Soused"
The problem of catching pigeons in order to thin them out was solved rather ingeniously about 20 years ago by a London vicar—a well-known temperance worker—who employed an old poacher's dodge. His trouble was to get rid of the pigeons that nested in and overcrowded the exterior recesses of his church.

So he sprinkled in the churchyard a quantity of corn which had been well soaked in rum for 24 hours. The pigeons ate it greedily and their capture was rendered easy.

It was said that one intoxicated pigeon was found staggering up the middle aisle of the church with a pronounced hiccup. —London Daily News.

The Last Place
He came home tired. All men come home tired. It is a requirement of the Association of Husbands in Business that a man come home tired.

"Isn't it grand that we are going out tonight?" was the greeting as he hung up his coat. "The Grambs have invited us over—the place I've always wanted to go!"

"Oh!" he replied.
"After that we're all going to meet at Donahue's downtown for a quiet supper."

"Uh—anywhere else?"
"Well, home, I suppose," she said despairingly.
He wondered for a week how she happened to think of that.—Kansas City Times.

No Clare

It is a dignified individual not given to making stories, and he swears by the good name of his family temple that this actually occurred. He ranged in his opinion the cashier's desk in a St. Charles' private restaurant and asked for his favorite brand of cigar. The woman lifted out the box, but a customer's clerk came, while he pressed the cashier's desk. "Have you a 'Clare'?" he asked the girl. And the clerk young thing dimpled as she replied: "No, we haven't. My name's Jane and the other girl's name is Anna. We haven't a 'Clare' here." —New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Wrong Idea About Bat
The old simile, "blind as a bat," was probably suggested by the fact that a bat is blind and unable to see well when it suddenly enters a brilliantly lighted room. As a matter of fact, the bat has very keen sight, although it seldom ventures abroad except at night. The purpose in question, however, may have originally referred to the popular belief that the bat is really blind and finds the way about by instinct. The bat is a mammal and the female nurses the young at her breast until they are able to eat insects.—Parklander Magazine.

Fail to Agree on Forest Glen Case

Railroad Wants to Eliminate One Crossing and Retain Another—County Wants the Two Combined and Eliminated.

A hearing was held Tuesday afternoon at the court house in the matter of the application for the elimination of the Forest Glen crossing of the Wallkill Valley railroad in the town of Gardiner. The proposition is to determine the crossing which is just below the Terwilliger crossing. Traffic over the Forest Glen crossing is greater than over the Guilford crossing but some of the traffic is compelled to cross both crossings. The plan calls for the elimination of the Forest Glen crossing and directing traffic to the east over the Guilford crossing. The railroad's estimate for the elimination for work, materials and damages was $2,250.

The plan as proposed by the railroad was opposed by the county and the proposition was postponed until the next term of court. It was suggested that the crossing be moved and placed at a point where it would be less dangerous and the two sharp curves eliminated. This would be done by moving the road to the east. Further objection was noted by the county to the plan as proposed on the grounds that the crossing would be dangerous.

The railroad refused to consent to the crossing being put aside and the continuing of the two crossings was noted. The Guilford crossing is to remain as present under the plan. It was finally decided that the railroad would submit a revised plan to the court and the interested parties will be given an opportunity to comment and offer evidence on the revision. The hearing was adjourned subject to the call of the court.

Obeying Orders

Mrs. O called Ruth from her play in the front room. Though Ruth was only three years old she knew that that call was the summons to dinner. She trotted into the dining room, clambered into her chair and prepared to eat. Mrs. O, wishing to teach Ruth good manners, said: "Now, Ruth, look at my head and say a little prayer."

Ruth folded her hands on the table, bowed her head, and said: "A little prayer."

First Aid for Goldfish

The life of a goldfish was saved recently by artificial respiration similar to that used to revive human victims of drowning, asphyxiation, or electric shock.

On returning to her home one evening a woman found one of her goldfish lying on the floor apparently dead. She held the fish under water with one hand and, grasping it with the other just behind the gills, applied intermittent relief pressure. After five minutes the fish showed signs of life, and at the end of twenty minutes it was swimming about quite normally.

Obeys Life's Laws and Keep Spirit of Youth

There has been no improvement in the longevity of human life in the last one hundred years for those who reach the age of fifty, a writer in Physical Culture Magazine maintains. By improving the mortality record of the earlier years of life, he admits, the average span of life has nearly doubled in the last two or three centuries. But, he says, the chances for life for a man of middle age have not improved in the last century.

"The proper way to prolong life," he declares, "is to get more life, to live more completely, to make yourself more alive in every part of your bodily organism."

"There is much about the human body that is beyond our understanding. The most learned anatomical expert finds that the more he studies the body the more he realizes how numerous are the unsolvable mysteries that are hidden within it. Then why tamper with this marvelously constructed organism? Why not try to interpret the laws of life and health as indicated by the endeavors of the body itself to build and maintain health?"

Old Year Dead When Harvest Is Gathered?

That the calendar by which we count our days does not fit in harmoniously with the seasons is pointed out by an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"It has long been obvious," explains the editorial, "that starting the calendar on the first of January is all wrong. The year ends with the harvest, when the last grain is in, the leaves are fallen, and the earth has gone to sleep. The closing day of the calendar might well be that one on which we turn away from outward things and ask about the chances of having a little steam heat."

"It is unlikely on the whole, that the calendar makers will agree to end the year with the fall and begin it with the spring, as is meet and proper," concludes the editorial. "We must take January 1 as the beginning of the year because Julius Caesar fixed it that way and nobody has changed it."

Averages Untrustworthy

Recent insurance experience has shown that average tables are often misleading. The average weights are by no means the best weights. At ages under thirty the best conditions apparently exist among those whose weights are from five to ten pounds above the average. After age thirty the most favorable conditions are found among those whose weights are below the average. The amount below average increases with advancing age and at age fifty persons seem to be at their best when their weights are as much as twenty or thirty pounds below the average. Insurance experience shows that underweight is definitely an advantage so far as long life is concerned.

Her Past

They were very much in love with each other, and the young girl had but recently accepted an engagement ring from her sweetheart.

Although everything was perfectly planned for their future, the young man was inquisitive to the point of folly.

"Tell me, dear," he pleaded, "have you ever been kissed before?"

The girl blushed. She did not know what to say for the best.

"Well, yes; only twice," she confessed reluctantly.

"What?" he shrieked. "Who by?"

"Don't be ridiculous, dear," returned the girl. "It was only the church choir and the baseball club."

Trying to Help

Mrs. Blank returned home one afternoon after consulting a physician with the announcement that she had been advised to reduce the amount of carbohydrates in her diet. A few hours later the family assembled for dinner prepared by the cook, when all at once Mrs. Blank looked up to see Mandy lifting some of the vegetables off the table.

"Why, Mandy, what's the matter. Don't we get anything to eat?" some one asked the cook.

"No, siree, you don't get this. It's got too many hydrophobias in it," she answered quickly.

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of herbs, roots and fruits. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Keep your present car when you buy a new car

IF YOU are planning to buy a new General Motors car, why not keep your present car for the everyday use of the family?

A thousand educational and cultural opportunities are freely offered to the modern family, and the acceptance of them is limited only by the number of hours in the day.

As men have learned that minutes lost in transit are deducted from earning power, so the American woman knows that inadequate transportation exacts a heavy toll in time—and time is life.

For this reason General Motors believes it is contributing to sound national economy in encouraging the extension of two-car ownership. Enjoy this great advantage by keeping your present car when you buy a new car; or by adding another General Motors car; or by purchasing a used car from a General Motors dealer.

Whatever program you adopt, you may have the convenience of the GMAC Plan.

Strong Wind

Little Frank's mother was in the habit of sending him out on the back yard to play so he would get fresh air and exercise. One morning a strong wind was blowing and Frank objected very much to going out, but his mother insisted. While out in the yard his dog came along and in their romping Frank pulled a button off his waist. When he came in his mother noticed he had lost a button and asked him how it happened. He said: "You made me go out in the wind and it blew that button off."

No Waste in France

Almost every land has its dealers in second-hand goods, but in France, where strict economies have been required because of the war's expense, salvage "specialists" are flourishing in large numbers.

Among them are men who travel from door to door, mending old china and other articles. Even the coarsest cooking utensils are saved instead of being thrown away, to await the arrival of the expert mender. Numbers of women are seen at weaving new bottoms in cane chairs. Even nails are hammered straight again and old pins made serviceable for further use. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

What's the Use?

After listening imperturbably while the canvasser enlarged on the vast stores of knowledge to be derived from the work he was offering on the installment plan, the negro remarked quietly: "Tain't no use to me, boss; I knows heaps more now than I gets paid for." —Exchange.

Saugerties Road Crossing Would Cost $144,000

Railroad Objects to Roadway 40 Feet in Width and to Various Other Things the State Officials Insist on —Hearing Adjourned to June 26.
The cost of elimination of the West Shore railroad crossing on the Kingston-Saugerties highway in the town of Ulster just outside the city limits would be $144,000, exclusive of the cost of land and damages, according to the estimate of the State Department of Public Works. This would carry the highway over the present grade crossing on an elevated roadway 40 feet in width and some 137 feet north of the present grade crossing. The plans as proposed contemplate an approach from the southwest over a ramp starting at 1,295 feet southwest of the present crossing and a similar ramp to the northeast ending 1,275 feet north-east of the present grade crossing. The entire length of the overpass would be 2,710 feet. The span over the railroad tracks would be 115 feet in length with three spans each on either side of the main span across the tracks. The grade on the viaduct would vary from .25 per cent to 5 per cent.

These plans as submitted before a public hearing held Tuesday at the court house were objected to by the railroad on the ground that they were too elaborate, contemplated too wide a roadway and involved too long a grade to the northeast. The contention of the railroad engineer was that a 40 foot roadway between curbs was unnecessary, that the radius of curves was too great and that the extent of the elimination on the northeast approach of the improvement was carried too far back. It was also stated that the railroad was not sure that future tracks of the railroad will be located the same as now. The special objection was in regard to the 40 foot structure.

Testifying for the Department of Public Works it was stated the plans as drawn called for an estimated cost of $67,030 for the roadway; $63,786 for the structure, a total of $130,816 and the cost of advertising, etc., would make the total estimated cost $144,000.

On the westerly side of the southerly approach there would be a 16 foot roadway to connect with the roadway which exists there at the present time.

It was stated that the present policy of the state is to build 40 foot bridges on the main highways now so as to provide for four lines of traffic. The highway now being built on the east side of the river, however, is but 27 feet in width. The overpass at West Park was referred to by the railroad engineer as one job which had been completed within recent years and which was not a 40 foot roadway. The reply of the state department was that the department will very shortly have to petition for the widening of this structure. The Rondout creek bridge was also cited. The State Department contended that although this bridge was narrow that was no reason why the state should continue to make mistakes.

The railroad requested time to make a survey of the situation and study the plans of the state as presented. The railroad engineer stated that his belief was that a 500 foot radius curve was sufficient and that a 6 per cent grade was safe and economical and would eliminate the long approach to the north. The matter was adjourned until 2 p. m. June 26 at the court house here in order to give the railroad an opportunity to make its survey and prepare a scheme.

Assistant Engineer Bogart was first called as a witness. He described the present roadway and said the present road was practically level and straight for 1,600 feet each way. The railroad runs almost straight for a long distance and the crossing at present is protected by gates 24 hours a day.

He testified that he had caused a traffic count to be made on Saturday, August 12, 1927, and between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m. there were 2,987 vehicles crossing. On August 13 from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. 19,144 vehicles crossed the tracks. The average would be perhaps 8,000 a day.

Mr. Bogart said he had heard of accidents at the crossing. He had seen trains standing across the road for long periods and only recently waited 8 minutes for a train to clear. This was due to switching, refueling and rewatering of engines to the southeast of the tracks.

Mr. Bogart said it was in the interest of public welfare to eliminate the crossing and the engineer for the railroad admitted that the crossing was one more dangerous than the average by reason of the frequent long lines of cars which made it hard for the gate tender to lower the gates between closely following cars without dropping the gates very close to and oftentimes on top of cars.

Bernard Roach, engineer for the Department of Public Works, gave distances of visibility from various points along the roadway and told of obstructions which prevented a full and clear vision of approaching trains. He said he had heard of accidents at the crossing. The railroad crossed the road at a tangent.

W. W. Van Keuren, who owns considerable land in the vicinity was called. He said his lands were to the east and west of the railroad. Portions he had laid out in streets and there were houses there now. To the south of the railroad crossing 50 feet a street which has not been deeded over as a public highway but which has been turned over to use of people who have business on it, according to Mr. Van Keuren. He had laid out these streets and lots in 1923 or 1924. He said he had known of two deaths in 1906 at the crossing and one since and there were frequent accidents. The crossing was guarded by a flagman and gates but

Mr. Van Keuren said he had frequently seen the gate tender as far as 500 feet from the gate house for as long periods as 15 minutes. The gates operate 24 hours a day.

The state's engineer stated that the state would not approve any plan of the railroad to put in 500 foot radius turns or a 6 per cent grade. Any money spent by the railroad engineers for such a survey would be wasted for the state would not approve any such plans. In some places a 1,200 foot radius turns were all that in construction would make local conditions made it necessary but the department was not making this a standard, that was the minimum which the department would consider except in extreme cases.

The railroad figures showed that since June 1925 there had been five cars in collision with the gates at the crossing and one car in 1924 had been in collision with a train. It was admitted by the railroad that the crossing was a more than average dangerous crossing.

The hearing was adjourned until June 26 at 2 o'clock at the court house.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

Thus far, the first east-west series has served to bear out previous predictions that the National League race of 1928 would develop into a free-for-all battle involving six or more of the eight clubs.

The New York Giants and Brooklyn Robins went into the west with a firm hold on first and second place, respectively, chiefly because of cut-throat competition among the western teams. Today the Giants were still in first place although sitting far from comfortably there, and the Dodgers had dropped to the fourth rung. Chicago, in sixth place, was only a game and a half behind the league leaders.

All four eastern clubs were beaten yesterday.

The Giants dropped a 6 to 5 decision to Donie Bush's Pittsburgh Pirates. Burleigh Grimes, traded by the Giants for Vic Aldridge during the winter, chalked up his fourth victory in six starts, fanning seven men. Aldridge has yet to pitch for the clan of McGraw. Dutch Henry was on the mound for the Giants and might have carried the verdict but for poor support. Freddie Lindstrom had a bad day at third base, making two costly errors. George Grantham stole home in the second inning.

The Cincinnati Reds took advantage of Ed Brandt's wildness to score a 7 to 2 win over the Boston Braves. The Reds tallied four runs in the sixth on two hits and five passes. Hughie Critz had a busy day, making three hits, one a homer, and handling eight chances in the field without a bobbie.

The Cubs ran their winning streak to four games by turning back the Robins, 4 to 2. Percy Jones having the edge on Jess Petty in a pitching duel. Kiki Cuyler, injured hand and all, returned to the Cub lineup and drove in two runs.

Six Philadelphia hurlers were subjected to a barrage of St. Louis hits and the Cardinals won, 15 to 4. High's homer with one on in the fifth was the high spot of the Cards' batting attack. Neither Burt Shotton nor Bill McKechnie, rival managers, were on the bench. Shotton is suffering from influenza; McKechnie from a three-day suspension.

Over in the American League, the New York Yankees suffered their second shutout of the year as George Uhle pitched the Cleveland Indians to a 3 to 0 victory. Uhle gave up four hits and completely silenced the bats of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. Herb Pennock, proud owner of a five-game winning streak, was on the short end for the first time this year although he pitched good ball.

The Athletics moved up to within two games of the leaders by nailing out the St. Louis Browns at Philadelphia, 4 to 3. Cobb scored the winning run in the seventh on Joe Hauser's safe hit. Eddie Rommel was hit hard but sharp fielding enabled him to register his first win of the campaign.

A four hit pitching masterpiece by Ed Morris carried the Boston Red Sox past the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 1, and out of the cellar. The Sox, losing their seventh straight game, dropped into last place.

Marberry and Lisenbee were pounded for 17 hits by the Detroit Tigers in Washington's overwhelming defeat at the Capital, 12 to 2. Bob Fothergill hit two triples, a double and a single in five chances.

Heeney's Rise Is Surprising

THE struggle for recognition of Tom Heeney, burly Mackintosh from New Zealand, which culminated in a match with Gene Tunney of the heavyweight championship, reads so like a story book that a newspaper might have been written about it. A newspaper man, who lived a short story upon Heeney's life, had it returned with the advice that it is in the future to read life for his plot.

The burly Heeney came to America last January without even an overcoat and with no false impressions of his own ability as a fighter. He wanted a "couple of good" to get enough funds for a trip to California before sailing from there back to New Zealand. "I don't know," he said, "but I have little idea then that championship possibilities were his."

After interviewing every fight promoter in New York, Heeney finally was given a match with Charley Anderson, Chicago negro, which he won in mediocre fashion when Anderson was disqualified. He looked a bit better in winning a 10-round decision from Jack De Mare, but lost another decision to Paulino Uzcudun, the bounding league, although most critics thought he had earned at least a draw.

Heeney got his draw with Paulino in a 15-round bout last fall. Then he knocked over Jimmy McIntyre in a round and won from Johnny Risko of Cleveland, the other finalist in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament, in 10 rounds. A 12-round draw with Jack Sharkey and 15-round win over Jack Delaney placed him at the top of the list of contenders.

Before coming to America, Heeney, who is twenty-nine years old, fought only twenty-four fights in New Zealand, Australia, England and various parts of Europe. He won eight by knockouts, won thirteen, drew two and lost only to Blackie Miller, in Australia, on a foul in 1924.

In almost every match Heeney has fought here he has been the underdog going into the ring. He thinks he is just an ordinary fighter with plenty of ability to "take it," but without exceptional ability. Rather frankly, Tom will tell you that the only good fighter here now is Paulino Uzcudun, who has hurt him most in their two fights. But Heeney's plodding style and courage as great as his 200-pound body always has managed to carry the Anzac through to victory over the flashier rivals in the elimination.

Tom Heeney.

Gene Tunney.

K. H. S. SOPHOMORES WIN OPENING INTER-CLASS GAME

In the opening game of the Kingston High School Inter-class Baseball League at the Athletic Field Tuesday afternoon the Sophomores defeated the Juniors, 7-3. The winners had their scoring harvest in the fifth when they registered three runs. Tiano, the Sophs' hurler, had a brand of hops and curves that completely fooled the Juniors. Chipp began well on the mound for the Juniors but broke in the fifth stanza. The Juniors scored their three runs in the first inning and went scoreless for the rest of the game. As the game went on, Tiano became better and when the sixth inning came around, he was pitching wonderful ball. It was due to Jack Britt's single in the fifth that the Sophomores took the lead. The sacks were piled when Jack came to the plate. He hit a fast single over second and two men scored. Oliver, who played first for the third year class, gets most of the credit for the put-outs. The Sophomore line-up in batting order: Carle, 3b; Blackwell, ss; Prosser, 2b; Tiano, p; Simmons, rf; Quill, lf; Kroppel, c; Britt, 1b.

Prep Rowing Booms

Interest in rowing among school boys has resulted in prominent schools of Philadelphia and Boston organizing regattas. As Quincey, Ill. is to be the scene of the Central states regatta this year a school of that city has felt the urge and has ordered an eight-oared shell, one six-oared shell and two singles, as well as a double from a Boston boatbuilder. The sport appears to be booming all over the country.

Where Do They Get All Gotham Fight Referees?

New York, too, is having its troubles with fight referees. "Where Do They Get 'Em?" headlines one Gotham paper, and then proceeds to answer the question by listing the various vocations of the state's licensed referees.

The list shows a fisherman, a garage manager, a lodge officer, a restaurant owner, a cigar salesman, a florist, a baseball umpire, a post office clerk, a truckman, a steamfitter, a timekeeper and a chef.

These are referees. A list showing what some of the boxers were before they jumped to the conclusion that they were fighters would be even more intriguing.

Both teams have been practicing earnestly for the game which promises that the fans may look forward to an interesting contest.

Large Attendance Expected at Bouts

Tickets for the American Legion bouts to be staged under the auspices of the 15th Field artillery at the armory Friday night, May 11, are in big demand in Newburgh and Saugerties. Kingston is also rushing the ticket sellers for admission passes and the fact that scrappers from the three communities are scheduled to battle is expected to bring out a record gathering Friday night.

"It-d" Mosher, pride of Newburgh, will have 204 followers with him it is forecast, while Joe Vosdick is expected to draw a large number of Saugerties fans of theistic art. These two have been battling their way to recognition as army boxers in down-river communities and the Metropolis and their showing here against Willie Herman and Frank Pozzo, respectively, is expected to register sterling battles. Mosher is scheduled to do eight rounds in the main event with Herman, while Vosdick is slated for the same number of stanzas with Pozzo in the semi-final.

Cornell Diesel At Buffalo

The Diesel Tug, No. 20, owned by the Cornell Steamboat Company operating in connection with the Erie Canal Towing Co. of Buffalo, arrived in Buffalo last week. This is the first Cornell tug to arrive in Buffalo. She is a handsome craft somewhat larger than the average tugs that ply the large canal and experts declare the boat has great power. Her hull is black with yellow and red upper works.

Members of the crew from Kingston are Captain Hillis and Pilot Austin Tucker. Louis Tauck and Richard Prendergast from Port Ewen are on the deckhands. The other men on the boat are from New York city. Captain Hillis, who commands the Cornell No. 20, said the tug made rather slow time owing to having been held up by high water along the route. She will return to New York city with two of her barges laden with iron and four barges with grain.

At present there is much enthusiasm in New York towing circles over the outlook for big business along the canal, between now and the close of the season. It is said that traffic will be heavy both eastbound and westbound.

First National Stamp

The first United States adhesive stamps were issued July 1, 1847. Prior to this there were stamps used in certain cities such as New York, St. Louis, Baltimore, Providence and others, but these were not United States stamps.

Resolution

In truth, there is no such thing as man's nature as a settled and full resolve either for good or evil, every at the very moment of execution.

Laments Passing of the "Good Old Times"

Times have changed and people have grown so serious that the old delight in holidays has vanished, is the complaint voiced by the writer of an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"April Fools' day was one of the bright spots of the year," points out the editorial. "There was a bet under the hat; the stuffed pocketbook with the string tied to it. Breakfasting filled with oysters were a rare treat, and so was candy shot through with cayenne pepper. It was a long time anticipated and long remembered, as were St. Valentine's day, Christmas eve, Halloween, and the night before the Fourth of July. On Thanksgiving we went to grandmother's house and ate gorgeously. There aren't such grandmothers any more, or such cranberries.

"Christmas now means bills to meet," continues the disillusioned writer. "Independence day has been made a Safe Fourth. We no longer get any fun out of April Fools' day. Those unofficial childish holidays were a kind of possession peculiar to the past. They are not the same now. We are grown up and serious, and times have changed."

Odd Contradiction in Behavior of Mankind

When a man goes into a field to devote a day's work to producing food crops for his needs, he labors with intelligence, and accepts world experience. There is an agreed time to plant and harvest, and he follows this knowledge; in everything, while in the field, he works as effectively as possible. He naturally accepts all information that has been tried out in the centuries. He finds truth an asset; folly troublesome and expensive.

But when the same man goes to church, or lodge, political convention, or social affair, he changes his attitude; he believes in sentiment, and denies fact and experience in half he does.

A man must be a strange creature to God, who does all things well.—E. H. Howe's Monthly.

Safety Organization

The National Safety council is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization for the promotion of safety, sanitation and health in the industrial, public and home life of the whole world. It was founded in 1913, when a little group of employers, appalled by the useless and unnecessary sacrifice of life and limb occurring every year, determined upon a relentless fight against accident causes. Today the council has a membership of over 4,500 industrial concerns, government departments, insurance companies, schools, libraries, miscellaneous organizations and individuals. Its influence is felt throughout more than 10,000 workshops and among more than 10,000,000 workers, whose lives are safer because of its service. Its scope has grown from national to international.

Origin of Basket Ball

In 1891 a lecturer on psychology in the training school of the Young Men's Christian association at Plainfield, Mass., speaking of the mental processes of invention, proposed the example of a game with its limitations and necessities. The same night James Naismith, a member of the class, worked out basket ball as an ideal game to meet the hypothetical case, and the next day in the lecture room it was put in practice with the aid of the members of the gymnastic class. Thence it spread to other branches of the Young Men's Christian association, and in two or three years to other athletic clubs and to the general public.

Fingerless Families

The story is that the great-grandmother, when she was young, told a lie about an apple, whereupon her parents threatened her with a curse that her children later on would be born with deformed hands. Whether it is true or not, the family of whom the story is told have for four generations suffered from a curious deformity. Ten members have had something wrong with their fingers, some having only two joints instead of three in some of the fingers, others having no finger-nails, and one or two being without fingers at all.—London Tit-Bits.

Her Point of View

John Bull, M. P., was determined to wake up his constituency. In particular he resolved to tackle a certain baronet's wife who, though she might have been a power for good in the district, preferred auction bridge to deeds of charity. "Doubtless, Lady Blankspace," he said, when he called upon her one afternoon, "you have noticed the time that is wasted at bridge parties." Lady Blankspace agreed heartily. "You're right," she said. "Some people take years to shuffle and deal, don't they?"—London Mail.

One Is About Gone

The falcon, most closely related to the hawk, is exclusively American, inhabiting a rather narrow range from Nova Scotia to northwestern British Columbia, and in the Alleghenies, Rocky mountains and Sierras-Cascade ranges. It was never a common species, says Nature Magazine, and the effect of settlement and unrestricted trapping has been its virtual extinction over most of its range; yet it still has little protection, and the high price that the skin commands insures its continued pursuit.

Kills Worms

To exterminate earthworms from potted plants, thrust antimony sulphur matches, heads down, into the earth around the plants. Use from two to six matches, according to the size of the plant.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 9 (A).—High money rates continued to cast a shadow over today's stock market, which drifted lower under heavy selling for both accounts. Early declines ranged from one to nine points, but a partial recovery took place in the afternoon when a large supply of out of town funds, attracted by the six per cent call money renewal rate, began to make their appearance. Trading showed a further contraction in volume, although the ticker was again unable to keep pace with the market.

Termination of the negotiations for a merger of the Coca Cola and Canada Dry Ginger Ale Companies was followed by heavy selling of both stocks, the former dropping 3 1/2 points and the latter 7 1/2. Rubber shares turned heavy on the production of Harvey S. Firestone that the price would be cut within three months and that it was expected that several of the large producers would be able to work off their high inventories before the cut became effective.

Sharp declines took place in such recent favorites as General Motors, Radio, General Electric, International Telephone and Airplane stocks. Freeport Texas broke 4 points in further reflection of a poor first quarter report. Heavy profit taking also forced recessions of 1 to 5 points in a number of the public utilities.

Oil shares were adversely affected by another large increase in crude oil production last week and steels were inclined to heaviness on reports that commodity prices had developed a softening tendency.

Pool operations were not entirely abandoned, however, American Bank Note and Lambert were each bid up about 5 points to new high records, and a number of other specialties moved up 1 to 3 points.

Delaware and Hudson broke more than four points, presumably in reflection of speculative disappointment over President Loree's failure to announce a disposition of the $63,000,000 received by the road for its Wabash and Lehigh Valley holdings.

New York Central was bid up more than 3 points and was accompanied into new high ground by Wabash, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Reading.

Japs Keep Secret

The system used by the Japanese to dwarf pine trees is kept secret by them.

Halo Around Sun Seen Here

An unusual natural phenomenon was witnessed Monday and Tuesday when a halo with a radius of 22 degrees was formed around the sun. It resembled the rings seen at various times about the moon, called lunar halos, and shaded from a purple hue on the inside, nearer the sun to a white fringe.

According to Prof. Caroline L. Furness of the Vassar College department of astronomy the solar halos are "perfectly natural phenomena" although they are seen very seldom. She said the solar halo is caused by the presence of ice needles high in the upper atmosphere.

The phenomenon went unnoticed by many Kingstonians as the sun was too powerful to permit one to see the halo without the aid of a smoked glass. However, T. H. Richards of 61 Fair street, who observed it, called The Freeman and said it was the first time he had noticed it in 50 years. Mr. Richards' attention was first called to the phenomenon by Indians in South Dakota where he resided at the time.

RAILROADS MUST SIGNAL CROSSING

Motorist Is Entitled to Notice That Train Is Approaching.

The October of last year the interest of motorism was stimulated by a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, says a bulletin issued by the legal department of the Chicago Motor Club. "In this case the court substantially held that the driver of an automobile must come to a full stop before crossing a railroad track and if, from the place where the automobile was stopped, a clear view of the track could not be had, he was required to leave his car, walk to the track, and determine conclusively if there was an approaching train."

At His Own Risk. "The court further held that if a motorist relied upon not hearing the train, or any signal, and took no further precautions, he did so at his own risk."

The bulletin points out that "While this decision will have considerable effect upon the courts of the country, its language is probably much more alarming to a layman than it is to a lawyer. For the reason that no detailed reference is made to the facts surrounding the case, the decision is in a measure dangerous, and an unfortunate expression of dictum."

Signals Required.

It is the opinion of the legal department of the Chicago Motor Club "That the dictum of the Supreme court in this case was not intended to raise the standard of care required of a motorist and lessen the obligation of a railroad company; that the law still imposes upon railroad companies the duty to give expected and required signals and not to run at an unlawful rate of speed. If a motorist's view is obstructed and his hearing of an approaching train is prevented, and especially if this is done by the fault of the railroad company and the company's servants fail to warn him of its approach, and, induced by this failure of duty, which has lulled the motorist into security, he attempts to cross the tracks and is injured, having used his faculties as best he could in the circumstances to ascertain if there was any danger ahead, negligence should not be imputed to him, but the company. If in the exercise of ordinary care, a motorist has no knowledge or notice to the contrary, he should have a right to assume that an approaching train will not operate in violation of the law," concludes the bulletin.

Check Car's Wiring to Get Best Road Service

Sudden stopping of the engine or even certain types of skipping often can be traced to a loose high-tension ignition wire from the coil. This is particularly true if the wire fits into the coil at the underside, for then the weight of the wire tends to pull itself loose.

If the wire can be moved in and out of its connection with little effort it should be made to fit tightly. Just spread the metal contacts at the end of the wire and push the wire back into its connection. An extra precaution is to tape the wire to the coil.

Gasoline Engines Used by an Eastern Railroad

Steam engines on the passenger train service of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are being replaced by motor locomotives in the Shenandoah region. This adoption follows experiments in which gasoline motor engines were found able to haul cars accommodating 71 passengers, and baggage, an express and mail car in good time. However, railroad officials think that much more powerful gasoline engines will have to be perfected before they can handle unusually heavy traffic and make steep grades.

Keep Chain on Spare

"The more, the merrier," applies to skid chains. Motorists who have dismounted from a warm car to change a flat tire and then have had also to change a chain from one tire to another never will question the point. Keeping a chain on the spare tire is an excellent way to reduce the time required for a tire change in winter. Therefore, if one normally uses four chains, five are better and, if only two, three represent a big improvement. Try it and be convinced.

NEW GIANT OMNIBUS BUILT FOR LONDON

The photograph shows at the left the new giant omnibus built for service in London, shown in comparison with one of the regular busses now in use. The large machine is built to carry 104 passengers, twice the number carried in the smaller machines.

The Mind and Fatigue

It is generally agreed by psychologists that the threshold of highest mentality is reached at about 11 a. m. One authority says that tests made in various colleges prove that the mind is less active when fatigued.

Northerly Orchards

The most northerly orchards in the British empire—probably in the world—are located in central British Columbia, despite the fact that the temperature sometimes goes down to 50 degrees below zero.

Car Lubrication Needs
Car owners usually recognize the need for a lighter lubricant in transmission, differential and engine when the mercury drops. Why not extend this consideration to other units? The steering and spring shackles are particular places where lighter lubrication is distinctly in order. A heavy grease hardens when cold, and because of this certain parts of the steering and shackles are operating dry. Since they are working parts the effect is wear. A heavy oil should supplant the grease used in warm weather and even this might well be thinned with ordinary medium oil from time to time.

Traffic Signal Does Away With Policeman

A traffic signal with cars is the newest device which may further simplify the solution of the traffic problem. It is the invention of Charles Adler, who recently demonstrated its practical use. Motorists will be able to control traffic themselves with the aid of the new signal device. The sound of the automobile horn, ten feet distant from the signal, affects the "ears," which are metal boxes resembling radio microphones. When the approaching motorist tools his horn the "ears" transmit the sound and cause the red signal to change to green long enough to permit him to pass the intersecting road. After a sufficiently long interval, the light changes again to red until another customer comes along and sounds the horn.

Owner Should Know the Price of a Repair Job

Cast a glance here and there about one's favorite repair shop or service station is a profitable occupation at times. An instance is to be found in the case of the price schedules that are posted in those places which go in for "flat-rate work." Under the impression that it is too expensive, the car owner frequently defers having a necessary repair made to the automobile. The shop's price schedule often teaches the error of such a surmise. Repair prices are well worth knowing and every motorist should arm himself with this knowledge.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

- A soft tire doesn't turn away wrath.
- Much automobile engine wear can be prevented by changing the oil at regular intervals.
- The race is getting healthier, authorities say—but not the race to the railroad crossing.
- The foot that seems positively eager to locate the accelerator has difficulty in finding the brake.
- Who cares a hoot about the f. o. b. price of a car? Why don't they tell us how much a month?

Hoover Grilled By Committee

Washington, May 9 (A).—Herbert Hoover underwent a searching examination today at the hands of the Senate campaign funds committee, testifying that his personal expenditures might total $200 and telling his interrogators at one time that he wondered if they were not dealing in a "pretty low type of secret slander."

Senate to Probe Hanson Shooting

Washington, May 9 (A).—Charges that Jacob B. Hanson, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was shot during the early morning of May 6 by two members of the United States coastguard service will be investigated by the Senate Commerce Committee at the request of Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York.

Piano "Solo" That Had to Be Made Into Duo

Years ago, Busoni, master pianist, was giving a recital in a provincial city. During the performance it became obvious that something was wrong, and at last Busoni stopped playing, wheeled round on his seat, and threw up his arms with a gesture of despair.

There was a consultation on the platform, and the impresario under whose management Busoni was appearing then made a little speech.

"There is one note that sticks," he told the audience. "It will not come up."

He added that it had been arranged for some one to sit by the piano and lift the note each time it stuck.

As may be imagined, the result was hardly satisfactory but very comical. Busoni's hands running rapidly over the keyboard and the assistant's fingers pecking wildly among them, till the two performers broke down with laughter amidst the unrestrained merriment of the audience.—Kansas City Star.

Men of Genius Knew Value of Advertising

The Parisian poet who is seeking to attract human readers by first addressing his verses to the lions in a circus is not the first of his kind to hit on a zoological advertisement. Gerard de Nerval sought publicity by appearing on the boulevards with a live crowfish on a lead of ribbon, and found that he had judged rightly in thinking people would be curious to sample the writings of a man capable of such an eccentric and novel idea in pets.

Rossetti, too, hit on a similar device and once told a friend he was looking around for a young elephant. "I mean him," explained the poet-painter, "to clean the windows. Then when passers-by see the elephant cleaning the windows they will ask, 'Whose house is that?' and, being told 'Rossetti's', the painter, lives there' they will say, 'I think I should like to buy some of that man's pictures.' So they will ring and come in and buy."—Manchester Guardian.

Raindrops Are Measured

If 312 average raindrops were laid side by side they would make an inch of water. This has been determined at University College, Dublin, where more than 3,000 falling drops were measured. The experiments found that raindrops vary in size, some being ten times as large as the average.

Chiffon Used for Dinner Gowns

Material Placed in Front Rank by Paris—Tiers Lead Novel Note.

With spring fashions generally manifested the trend that is worn for semi-formal occasions is being carried forward with an air of importance. There has come upon the scene a dress of such unusual lines and finish that it may successfully serve several purposes.

In Paris where styles first see the light of day the vogue of chiffon for dinner gowns and all their close relations, was really placed in first rank of favoritism. The new gowns are simple enough for dinner, and smart enough to appear later in the evening at supper clubs. Fanciful, drapings, pinings and tiers all are seen to vary the silhouette. Colors vary a good deal in these gowns. Fuchsia and mauve tones as well as the more youthful aquamarine, coral and jewel shades are seen in contrast to the sophistication of the all white or all black.

The uneven hemline which marks many of the newest dresses in town

the daytime and the evening mode is seen with marked success in the semi-formal gown.

Using tiers to add a novel note in a dinner dress of youthful appeal, Alice White, the featured motion picture actress, in the picture "Mad Hatter," is seen in a smartly new chiffon dress. Black, with white embroidery, is the fabric used and it makes smart use of three tiers of black velvet on the skirt, while a round neck is marked by a bias fold.

Attractive Prints Now Feature Spring Fabrics

Evening gowns of the period and other types reflect the novelty of compelling interest, the new printed materials. The printed pussy willow and taffeta are most happily adapted to the wide-skirted, bouffant or flounced model, and the printed crepes, chiffon volles, for the models in which drapery is introduced. French organdie and mousseline are being made in lovely colors for summer evening wear, taking the place of the beaded and metallic materials that were so fashionable last year. Tuttle comes in all colors. In all evening gowns plain fabrics show the wealth of color in natural flower tints that distinguishes the season's mode, but prints transcend the other styles and are having a sweeping vogue. Paul Carel, among the exclusive French couturiers, declares emphatically for the unprinted silks and fine-silple stuffs.

A charming dinner gown from Worth is made of white transparent velvet on which flowers are printed in shades of rose, mauve and blue, a group that reflects the feeling for color emphasized in all the latest costumes of the more dressy sort.

Black taffeta is still the favorite fabric with Lanvin, who makes the skirt of a black robe de style extravagantly full, with a pannier effect in loops of the same material draped over the hips.

Black Satin One Spring Fabric Approved by All

Satin, particularly black satin, will be exceedingly popular with women for the season. It looks like a satin springtime, says Bettina Bedwell in Liberty.

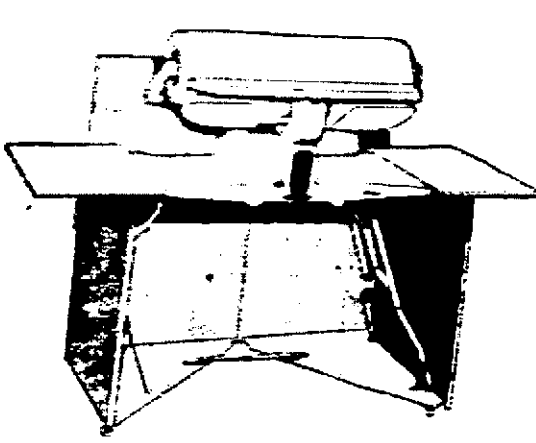

This doesn't mean, of course, that all the people are going to wear satin all the time. It does, however, mean that in every well-arranged wardrobe there will be at least one satin frock, or suit, for daytime, and at least one satin gown for night.

Satin for daytime means one thing—black satin. I cannot think of any fabric which is more universally suitable to all kinds of combinations and figures. Black satin is a reducing magic for the stout woman, and becoming to the very thin also.

Linen and Cotton

Linen absorbs water immediately and feels heavier than cotton. Linen, if freed from dressing, becomes translucent when treated with olive oil; cotton remains opaque. If torn quickly, linen threads will be smooth; cotton threads will curl.

Tree Always Extreme

in Matter of Thirst
Trees are confirmed drinkers. No solids for them. They have no temperate habits. They drink continuously or not at all. Thus they live and grow as extremists and are either destroyed or die of old age unreformed. Says the New York state college of forestry. In fact, the older they are the harder they drink and the greater their thirst. But no tree was ever found the worse for drinking. When they sleep in winter they go to the other extreme and are teetotalers, but with the first sunshine and thaw of spring they resume their bibulous habits.

The liquid food of the tree is brewed in the ground. Water is the important ingredient. Billions of bacteria work to make soluble many substances so they may be dissolved by water and taken into the circulatory system of the tree. The tiny roots of the tree drink this life fluid, which is lifted hundreds of feet as if by a miracle, defying the laws of gravity without any moving machinery. This fluid is distributed to the branches, thence to the leaves, the stomach of the tree, where another miracle is performed when the liquid is digested and made ready to be formed into wood.

The tree grows year by year, like a person, in height and girth. If the tree falls in the forest billions of bacteria will get hold of it, and with the help of air and sun and moisture its substance will eventually be transformed into the liquid food for other trees.

H. M. Robinson Gave Recital

Material Author Makes Subject of Poetry an Interesting One to Read at Audiences—Woodstock Mechanic Featured.

An unusual and most interesting recital was given at the M. E. Church Hall in Woodstock Tuesday night, following the dinner supper presented by the ladies of the parish, when Henry Morton Robinson, author of "The Rite," gave recital of poetry.

Mr. Robinson lives at the Marysville college, near Woodstock. His writings appear in the leading magazines of the day. In a preface to his recital, the author stated that it was his own theory that "poetry belongs to the people." He showed in clear manner how the early poetry was not written, but sung and chanted. His first selection was a verse about Albert Cashdollar, owner of the Woodstock Garage, whom he styles "mechanic to the world at large." "Indian Summer in Woodstock" was the second selection, a nature poem. Mr. Robinson continued his remarks by offering poems sprung from different sources, including the "inward-looking," the "character" and "descriptive" poems. "Old Simon" was humorous and received loud applause. His other selections included "The Rite," a boyhood story; "Prayer to the Sleep," "Green Hill," "A Hunt," and "Suburban Dawn."

"The one trouble about poetry," said the speaker, "is that a few care too much about it." And if the inference was that the many cared too little, Mr. Robinson did much to engage the interest of his audience in poetry that springs from humankind and their actions and reactions. His readings were very well received. The presentations of this successful poet and writer did much to dispel the idea that poets are "bleary-eyed academics" (the words were Robinson's) who kept themselves away from the world at large. It was an unusually healthy and instructive half-hour with a poet that Mr. Robinson's audience enjoyed at the Woodstock Hall. An instrumental solo, given by Mrs. John Cochrane of Bearsville, prior to the Robinson recital, was greatly appreciated.

MAARSEN, BUSINESS EXPERT, TO SPEAK TO CREDIT MEN

W. S. Maarsen, business expert and lecturer on the art of selling, will make his appearance in Kingston, before the Merchants Credit Association, Thursday evening, May 24, in a rendition of one of his inspirational lectures. This will be his first appearance in Kingston, and his portrayals elsewhere of the elements involved in salesmanship, have made such an impression upon those who have heard him, that it is considered an exceptional privilege to have him come here. Mr. Maarsen, with almost twenty-three years of practical field experience, back of him, is in possession of an abundance of new ideas and practical knowledge, and his forcefulness in his rendition has been the source of a great many men and women in the field being inspired and led on to greater achievements.

Thousands of organizations have heard him all over the United States and Canada, not before selling organizations alone but before colleges, schools of commerce, civic and community welfare councils as well. Wherever the speaker has appeared, his return engagements are always looked upon as a constructive and inspirational treat. He has advised with many organization heads as to the best mediums in campaigns and selling proposals.

What Sumatra Is Like

Sumatran Women of the Rural Districts.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

SUMATRA, largest of the Dutch East Indies, and until fairly recently in the hands of savages, is rapidly undergoing development by its methodical rulers. It is an immense island, nearly four times the size of Java and thirteen times larger than Holland itself, but its war-decimated population amounts to less than 3,200,000, most of which, for various reasons, is not available for labor. Because of this the island has been slow in attracting attention, although more favorably situated than Java and richer in natural resources.

Java has already been developed. Sumatra is an island of great future. In the development of that future practically all the labor has to be imported on short-term contracts. Chiefly it is Chinese, which is expensive; King, which is viewed with disfavor by the British Indian government; or Javanese, which is unwilling to come and does not thrive in the climate.

The best idea of current life in Sumatra is to be had by leaving the towns behind and striking into the interior. From the capital, Medan, the road to the south at first leads through some miles of country dense and green with vegetation, with tiny thatched native huts making picturesque brown spots in the midst of fruit trees and coco palms. As one approaches nearer to the hills, this gives way to open plains covered with high grass and low bushes, the characteristic tobacco land of Deli.

The larger estates, especially those of the Deli company, are divided into sections under the administration of assistant managers. Each year only one-tenth to a fifth of their enormous area is under cultivation, since to maintain the high quality of the tobacco grown the land is left fallow for from five to ten years after each crop. During the first year the natives are permitted to grow rice upon the fallow fields; then the soil is left to itself and to the bushes and rank grass which soon cover it. The tobacco crop is a rich one, but the demands it makes upon the land and upon labor are such that it is not surprising to find the never estates annually devoting more and more of their attention and territories to rubber and other less exacting products.

Up Through the Plantations. Gradually ascending in altitude, the road passes through many miles of these monotonous, fallow-lying plains, their desolate appearance only increased by an occasional row of un-used drying sheds and a few fire-blackened trunks of huge towering trees, solitary survivors of the primeval forest.

The sections actually in cultivation, however, are extremely interesting, with many acres of magnificent tobacco plants growing to a height of five or six feet in closely planted parallel ridges. Frequently they hedge the road on both sides and extend in unbroken rows as far as the eye can follow over the rolling fields.

The work of the plantation is many-sided and the various nationalities employed are usually engaged in their own distinctive branches of labor. Thus, although sometimes replaced by other races, Chinese predominate in the actual work on the tobacco plantations; the bullock-cart drivers are King; the carpenters are Borneans; the Javanese are woodmen, road builders, and gardeners; and the Bataks and Sumatran Malays, who are not obtainable in large numbers nor reliable for sustained labor, clear the land preparatory to planting, and build roads and sheds.

The ubiquitous Sikh is often found in his favorite capacity of guard or policeman. Lines of two-wheeled bullock carts with loose roofs of thatched palm leaves, matting, or even sheet tin, rumble slowly up and down the roads, hauling supplies and material for the estates. Many of the slow-plodding Indian oxen are magnificent big Gzerat animals, with large humps and long silky dewlaps, and with their red-turbaned Tamil drivers sitting on the floor of the open-fronted carts, are strongly reminiscent of the tea plantations of Ceylon.

The road is very good, wide, and well made. There is practically no rock in this part of the island; and the metalling for the roads must be imported; nevertheless, the chief highway of the coastal plains and the pass over the mountains are all macadamized. In the highlands, where metalling has not yet been attempted, such roads as exist are of a very different type. These are of dirt or clay well built and maintained, and good in dry weather. But Sumatra has an enormous annual rainfall, and during the wet season these clay roads become almost impassable.

Mountains and Great Forests. The road from Medan to the interior, however, gives no warning of what is to follow. Leaving the plains and the tobacco plantations, it gradually ascends through wilder country, and presently, with well engineered zigzags, begins to climb into the mountains.

As the road climbs higher the semi-tropical vegetation which has succeeded the coarse grass of the denuded plains gives way in turn to magnificent virgin forests, unbroken except for the narrow, winding path of the road. The enormous straight-trunked trees, ensnared by giant creepers, vines, and huge air plants, make so thick a canopy overhead that only a dim twilight filters in, and that fails to reach the ground through the dense, impenetrable tangle of vegetation. Little brooks of clear water rush steeply down the mountainside, hurrying to the sluggish yellow rivers of the plains their tiny contributions for the extensions of Sumatra's coast. Butterflies flit in the blue-black shadows; jungle fowl, their brilliance all subdued in the obscure half light, vanish silently from the edges of the road as one approaches, and other little creeping and fugitive things seek the security of the unbetraying jungle.

Insects with voices out of all proportion to their probable size scream shrilly from the branches, and the occasional whistle of a bird or the dull boom of a falling tree echo through the silent, dark recesses of the wood.

Much of the life of the jungle is to be seen along this little frequented road which opens up the very heart of the virgin forest; but infinitely more is the observer observed. Sometimes the crack of a broken branch betrays the hurried withdrawal of a larger animal, or a whirl of wings that of some startled bird; but only one's own sixth sense tells of the hidden watchers who silently follow an intruding man's progress with wondering, unfriendly eyes.

Hordes of Monkeys.

The swaying of branches overhead as one zigzags up the pass does not mean wind in the quiet forest; it means monkeys, and their antics are an unfailing amusement. Some wait in silence until the traveler draws near, then plunge back into the forest with a crash of branches which inevitably produces the shock they seem to have designed. Some tear furiously along through the trees in a desperate attempt to cross in front of the car.

When they do cross, far overhead, in a stream of small gray bodies flying through the air between the treetops, they as furiously race along on the other side and cross back again. Others cling to swaying branches and bound up and down in a frenzy of excitement, shrieking gibes in sharp crescendo.

Often in the midst of their agitation they suddenly lose all interest and forthwith pay no more attention to the intruders; or sit in silence with weakened, whiskered faces peering solemnly down from the trees.

As in Ceylon, it would be disastrous to leave the motor ungarded anywhere in a Sumatran forest, for everything that prying fingers could unscrew or remove would soon be reposing in the treetops.

There are many tribes of the monkey people: little black fellows with very long tails; troops of impudent brown ones; shy black-and-white monkeys with fine silky coats; and hordes of big gray beasts who chase and tweak each other, evoking shrieks of protest. Afoot from the hands that feed and gambol together, are a few enormous black bears which from the distance might be curious vegetable formations in the trees. But they move, and when examined through glasses, are seen to be orangutangs, found here and in Borneo.

Credit and human life are still far too cheap.
